Partners and Friends With Whom we Love to Work

Christina Quirin, M.A.

Resident in Hamburg/Germany, and works in English and German. Engaged in a PCC certification process (ICF)

“Have a positive attitude and spread it around, never let yourself be a victim, and for goodness’ sake – have fun.” (Jack Welch “Winning”)

Christina offers coaching for groups and teams (organisational coaching) as well as individual coaching. She works strictly result oriented and linked to the organisation’s objectives. Frequent themes are:

- Work through current leadership questions - Communicate convincingly, also in intercultural contexts - Navigating through stormy weather - Coaching of teams to increase performance - Developing your personal career.

Christina's background is a blend of 11 years of hands-on managerial experience and thorough psychological professional experience. She has worked with people and organisations in situations of growth, conflicts and crises. As head of communications in an international environment Christina managed transcultural projects and teams, steered external and internal communication processes. She developed and guided strategic communication in periods of political difficulties. Together with her team she won prizes and journalistic awards. Christina developed specific training on “writing professionally in management contexts” as well as programs to train communication skills and leadership know-how.
